Knit-Rite Introduces New and Improved Soft-Sock

KANSAS CITY, KS –: Knit-Rite, Inc., a Kansas City based manufacturer of medical textiles, introduces a new and improved Prosthetic Soft-Sock®.

The Prosthetic Soft-Sock® has long been one of Knit-Rite's best products, but even great things can be improved upon. After listening to customers and practitioners alike, and following a detailed research and development process, Knit-Rite has launched an improved design to the Original Soft-Sock®.

Knit-Rite knows that comfort is key, which is why one of the improvements made to the Soft-Sock® is a fully non-roll top. The new top lays flat against the skin and doesn't roll, eliminating the annoying bunching that can occur with the original or other prosthetic socks.

Another improvement made to the Soft-Sock® is a reinforced distal hole option. The "Eye-Hole" is knit into the sock. The new reinforced feature allows the eye-hole to sit in the proper position without stretching and moving out of place on the leg. This feature is patent-pending.

Knit-Rite's new Soft-Sock® contains all the other features of the original Soft-Sock®. These include soft and cuddly material, which feels extra comfortable next to the skin. Soft-Sock®'s toe is rounded and 3-dimensional providing better comfort. The antimicrobial nature prevents odors, while high-tech fibers wick moisture away from the skin. The sock also stretches and recovers to help it conform to the limb. It features a fine knit structure, which is designed to last and resists shrinkage.

Like the original, the new Soft-Sock® is available in many options. These include with and without the eye-hole; in original white moisture-wicking polyester material or grey X-Static®; a multitude of sizes for both adults and children; and lightweight, 3-Ply, 5-Ply and 6-Ply weights.
